Islamophobia in U.S. Social Movements: Non-profit Industrial Complex and State of Mass Organizing under Obama

Monami Maulik
Executive Director DRUM
monami@drumnyc.org

Critiques of how Islamophobia is being formulated and conceived in the social movement left in the US

Roots in funding and functioning of non-profit industrial complex- control of social movements by anti-left Alynskism

Problems of liberal construction of Islamophobia by policy, legal, beltway, and gatekeeper organizations

Need to root Islamophobia in material class & race analysis, law enforcement/military/national security industrial complex, US empire-building abroad and need for social control at home- lessons, stories, strategies from mass organizing on the ground in New York City with DRUM- a low-income Muslim mass organization

Critiques of the role of South Asian/Indian Islamophobia and dominance in US non-profits & funded efforts on Islamophobia