Premonious is a collective of makers working as one to develop and produce the stuff of dreams. Cyclope - The Bicycle - is a dream for Beirut’s traffic congested streets. It is foldable to facilitate ease of mobility and storage. It is a much more economic and sustainable means of transportation than any other alternative, as well as being faster than any 4-wheeled vehicle since no time is spent queuing in traffic jams.

The design itself is both unique mechanically and aesthetically. It features hollow wheels, away from the standard bicycle wheel, a minimal but edgy frame and a rubber based chain, however still having the classic handle bars and seat look. A 1/3 scaled model was produced and exhibited in Beirut Design Week 2013. It is still a work in progress and a plan to find investors in order to produce the first life sized prototype is underway.
