Historical Background

The Faculty of Arts and Sciences was established in 1866, the same year in which the Syrian Protestant College, now the American University of Beirut, was established. On December 13, 1866, the first class was held, attended by sixteen students, and in 1870 the first five students graduated. Arabic, which was the language of instruction since the inception of the college, was replaced by English in 1882.

AUB, in general, and the Faculty of Arts and Sciences in particular, have survived many crises since 1866, including two world wars, regional and local wars, student strikes, and economic crises. In spite of all these hardships the faculty has continued to develop and to maintain its high academic standards.
Mission
The Faculty of Arts and Sciences embodies AUB’s core commitment to the liberal arts and sciences. It offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the arts, humanities, and social, natural, and mathematical sciences, and is dedicated to advanced research in all of these domains. Through its freshmen and general education programs, it is the University’s principal gateway to higher studies and professional education. The faculty, through its teaching and research, promotes free inquiry, critical thinking, academic integrity, and respect for diversity and equality.

Vision
Building upon its rich tradition, the Faculty of Arts and Sciences is determined to position itself at the heart of free inquiry in the Middle East. Free and critical thinking is central to the faculty’s teaching, its research, its engagements with the wider community, and its commitment to the thoughtful transformation of all of its activities and structures. The faculty’s enhanced undergraduate programs will graduate innovators with a breadth of vision who can be agents of positive change wherever they live and work. The faculty will strategically expand its graduate offerings, especially in areas where it can make a distinctive contribution, and it will educate graduate students who are themselves producers of knowledge. The faculty will be recognized internationally for the quality of its research and creative activities in the humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, mathematical sciences, and interdisciplinary areas, whether undertaken in response to regional and global needs or to human curiosity and imagination. The faculty will provide a vital forum for open discussion and engage contemporary issues in ways that resonate far beyond our campus walls.

Graduate Study
Admission to the graduate programs in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences is competitive, based on the applicant’s academic record, achievements and research interests of the applicant. All applicants to graduate study need the recommendation of the academic unit concerned. Academic units may add additional requirements that would assist in their admission recommendations such as a writing sample, GRE (or GMAT, in the case of the Department of Economics) scores, and/or interview. GRE is only required from the following departments: Biology, Economics, History and Archeology, Philosophy, Political Studies and Public Administration, Psychology, as well as the program of MA in Middle East Studies.

The following includes admissions information specific to the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. Additional requirements are described in the General section on Admissions in this catalogue.

Admission as a Regular Graduate Student
An applicant is considered for admission as a regular student to a graduate program if he/she meets the following minimum admission requirements:

An undergraduate average of at least 80 percent (or standardized equivalent from other institutions of higher learning) in the major field of study and a cumulative average of at least 75 percent (or standardized equivalent) for all work done at the undergraduate level leading to a Bachelor’s degree or its equivalent from AUB or other recognized institutions of higher learning.
Applicants to the Environmental Policy Planning specialization in the Master's Degree Program in Environmental Sciences are required to have an average of at least 80 percent in the last two years of undergraduate study or its equivalent at AUB or other universities as determined by the Faculty Graduate Studies Committee.

Further requirements for admission to graduate work are found in the General section on Admission in this catalogue.

Admission as a Graduate Student on Probation

An applicant is considered for admission on probation if he/she meets the following minimum admission requirements:

An undergraduate average of at least 77 percent (or standardized equivalent from other institutions of higher learning) in the major field of study and a cumulative average of at least 75 percent (or standardized equivalent) for all work done at the undergraduate level leading to a Bachelor’s degree or its equivalent from AUB or other recognized institutions of higher learning.

Applicants to the Environmental Policy Planning specialization in the Master's Degree Program in Environmental Sciences are required to have an average of 75 percent in the last two years of study or its equivalent at AUB or other universities as determined by the Faculty Graduate Studies Committee.

Further requirements for admission to graduate work are found in the General section on Admission in this catalogue.

Admission as a Prospective Graduate Student

Applicants who hold a Bachelor's degree in a major field of study other than the one to which they are applying, and who do not have sufficient academic preparation in the field, may be admitted as a prospective graduate student who must complete specified undergraduate course requirements.

To be considered for admission as a prospective graduate student, the applicant must have attained an undergraduate average of 75 percent (or standardized equivalent) in all work done at the undergraduate level leading to a Bachelor’s degree or its equivalent from AUB or another recognized institution of higher learning.

Further requirements for admission to graduate work are found in the General section on Admission in this catalogue: If an average of 77-80 percent is attained, the student may have his/her status changed to graduate student on probation pending department recommendation and approval of the Faculty Graduate Studies Committee. The supplementary courses must be completed within four consecutive semesters.
