Admission

Requirements for admission into the MA program in Anthropology or Sociology are consistent with those of the Faculty of Arts of Sciences. Applicants are required to submit the following: two letters of recommendation, and a statement of goals/research interests and experiences. Each student may be interviewed upon application to determine her/his background and qualification.

MA in Anthropology

The anthropology MA program offers students general training in socio-cultural anthropology. AUB's program, especially with regard to its faculty's expertise in creative expression and arts production; mental health and well-being; cultural ethics; refugees; medical; and legal and historical anthropology, is distinguished by offering students the opportunity to develop a strong foundation in classical anthropological paradigms and to relate them to emerging concerns of modern Arab societies. Students will have the opportunity to study the development of the discipline, by exploring classical and contemporary theories, and by conducting original fieldwork or doing research on secondary sources. The program is designed to sensitize students to their responsibilities as anthropologists, expose them to fieldwork, help them acquire an understanding of anthropological theory and history, and to inspire experimentation with the medium and form of ethnographic writing.

MA in Sociology

The sociology MA program offers students the opportunity to study sociology with faculty in the department’s areas of research expertise, including contemporary sociological theory, comparative sociology, economic and political sociology, and research methodology. Other substantive issues include citizenship and civil society, cities and urbanism, education,

* Part time
ethnicity, religion, transnationalism, migration, refugees, sexuality, gender, and deviance. The program provides students with the opportunity to develop their knowledge and understanding of key theoretical approaches in sociology. Students will develop their intellectual skills in the critical examination of contemporary social issues, especially as they pertain to the Arab world, and will get a strong grounding in research methodology and training in both qualitative and quantitative research inquiry. Foremost students will conduct original empirical research through a thesis. In addition, the program encourages students to critically consider the relationship between theory, research, policy and practice, and to reflect on ethical considerations in doing social research.

Graduate Studies in Anthropology and Sociology

Students pursuing either an MA in Anthropology or Sociology are encouraged to work with faculty from other humanities and social sciences departments, in particular, media studies, political science, and the Center for Arab and Middle Eastern Studies. A master's degree in either field has a very wide application. Graduates in Anthropology and Sociology will be qualified to pursue doctoral level studies in their field. Alternatively, they will have acquired the research methods, the exposure to scholarship, and the intercultural skills they need to work effectively in multicultural settings such as non-governmental and governmental organizations, as well as expertise applicable in such domains as business, education, law, and public policy.

Requirements

A candidate for the MA degree in sociology or anthropology is required to complete 21 graduate credit hours in addition to a thesis. Sociology students must complete SOAN 300 and SOAN 312, and anthropology students must complete SOAN 304 and SOAN 310. Sociology students choosing a concentration in communication are also required to complete SOAN 313. The remainder of the requirements may be selected from other offerings in the department or in the FAS and other schools and faculties on campus, with the consent of the advisor and according to the interest of the graduate student.

Course Descriptions

SOAN 300  Graduate Research Methods  3.0; 3 cr.
An advanced course in the formulation of research problems, research designs, and techniques of data collection including quantitative and qualitative methods and micro versus macro approaches to social reality. Students participate in actual research projects and apply various techniques of data collection and analysis to interpret research findings. Annually.

SOAN 301  The Ethnographer’s Craft  3.0; 3 cr.
Anthropology or any socio-cultural research is not simply the gathering of data. The course will expose students to the classic and cutting-edge texts in anthropology today. Readings include the works of Mauss, Evans-Pritchard, Malinowski and the texts that have had the most impact in the field in the last decade. Close attention to the crafting of ethnographies will teach students an analytical method of reading that will help them understand the choices of theory, methodology, and style that have been made to create classic anthropological knowledge. Thus, this course will enable students to conceive, devise, and write-up their own ethnographic research. Alternate years.
SOAN 302 Culture and Mental Health 3.0; 3 cr.
This graduate seminar explores anthropological approaches to the study of mental health and illness. It will introduce students to theoretical traditions in medical and psychological anthropology. Addressing ethnographies from different settings, the course treats works on subjective experiences, becoming cultural beings as well as mental health as scientific practice and as object of knowledge and intervention. Occasionally.

SOAN 303 Art, Aesthetics, and Social Change 3.0; 3 cr.
This course combines cultural anthropology, art studies, urban studies, and history to look at the role of sensuality and aesthetics in social movements that involve envisioning a different future. Focusing on case studies from the Arab world, the US, and the former Soviet Union, the course will expose students to the most recent literature in affect theory, critical art theory, and Middle East studies, as well as the classic texts on power, social hierarchy, and structuralism. Occasionally.

SOAN 304 Anthropological Research Methods 3.0; 3 cr.
This course is about the various methods of enquiry and interpretation used in anthropological research. Though ethnographic methods are shaped by each research situation and its particular historical and cultural circumstances, they are also guided by broad theoretical questions. This course takes the perspective that research is comprised of three inter-related domains: creative theoretical speculation, methodological ‘operationalization’ of theoretical questions, and concrete research practices. The trick (or ‘magic’) of ethnographic research is to relate empirical and observational data in many forms to the theories that motivate their collection. We explore the politics and ethics of research, kinds of observation, effective interviewing strategies, note-taking, conducting surveys, examining archives, ways of ‘coding’ or indexing information, data analysis, and approaches to writing. Annually.

SOAN 310 Seminar in Anthropological Theory 3.0; 3 cr.
An in-depth survey of the major theoretical developments in socio-cultural anthropology. The seminar focuses on both chronological treatment of issues and theories as well as the contributions of leading theorists. Prerequisite: Graduate standing or consent of instructor. Annually.

SOAN 312 Seminar in Sociological Theory 3.0; 3 cr.
The seminar critically explores some of the enduring controversies and major developments in sociological theory. An effort is first made to elucidate the origins, strategies, and ideological antecedents and components of sociological theory. A special focus is placed on the reformulations of the classic tradition and recent post-modern and other promising directions Alternate years.

SOAN 313/ MCOM 301 Seminar in Communication Theory and Research 3.0; 3 cr.
The seminar introduces the student to trends in mass communication research and theoretical approaches to the communication process and communication context (small group communication, media processing and effects, media and society, culture and communication). Focus is placed on contemporary communication theories that have emerged in the discipline since the 1950s. Annually.
SOAN 315  Seminar in Middle Eastern Culture and Society  3.0; 3 cr.
A seminar on special aspects of research with emphasis on the cultural mechanisms and processes of change in pastoral, rural, or urban communities. This course includes presentation and analysis of field data on the Middle East. Occasionally.

SOAN 317/ MCOM 302  Seminar in Arab Media and Society  3.0; 3 cr.
A seminar on the political, social, and economic effects of the new communication technologies on modern Arab society. Special attention is given to the effects of cultural deviance in the media on children and the effects of the communication media on social and cultural change. Alternate years.

SOAN 318  Human Migration  3.0; 3 cr.
A comparative study of the causes and effects of human migration worldwide. This course covers issues concerned with voluntary and forced migration as well as temporary labor migration and voluntary migration and resettlement, with an emphasis on the Lebanese experience. Alternate years.

SOAN 320  Graduate Tutorial in Anthropology  3.0; 3 cr.
This, like other graduate tutorials in sociology and communication, is open to graduate students preferably during the second semester of the first year in their program of study. Tutorials provide opportunities for students to pursue directed readings and preliminary grounded research of relevance to their envisaged fields of concentration. May not be repeated for credit. Occasionally.

SOAN 321  Graduate Tutorial in Sociology  3.0; 3 cr.
May not be repeated for credit. Occasionally.

SOAN 323 Special Topics in Anthropology  3.0; 3 cr.
This, like other special topics in sociology and communication, is devoted normally to SOAN faculty or visiting professors and recognized scholars to explore topics of current interest. May be repeated for credit. Occasionally.

SOAN 324 Special Topics in Sociology  3.0; 3 cr.
May be repeated for credit. Occasionally.

SOAN 395A/B  Comprehensive Exam  0 cr.
Prerequisite: Consent of advisor.

SOAN 399  Thesis  9 cr.
MA in Media Studies

Mission Statement

The AUB MA in Media Studies offers students a broad-based multidisciplinary liberal arts curriculum grounded in the social sciences that teaches students media theory, research and practice, and focuses on critical thinking and on the role of media in society. The program offers a regional and global scope and stresses a liberal arts approach that emphasizes theory, research, teaching, and critical skills, but also includes some basic practical media skills. In addition to exploring media theories, students learn scientific research methods and systematic and critical inquiry into the nature, processes and consequences of traditional and new media. Students also develop solid digital media skills that prepare them for “an information technology driven age”—a goal prominently iterated in the mission of the Faculty of Arts and Science. The program brings forth issues and principles of freedom of the press, multicultural communication, and media ethics and social responsibility. It stresses the university’s commitment “to creative and critical thinking and civic responsibility” by emphasizing media literacy principles that aim to produce graduates who can effectively and critically access, analyze, utilize, evaluate and create media messages, in addition to developing media policies and strategies.

Admission

Requirements for admission into the MA program are consistent with those of the Faculty of Arts of Sciences. Applicants are required to submit the following: two letters of recommendation, and a statement of goals/research interests and experiences. Each student may be interviewed upon application to determine her/his background and qualification.

Requirements

The MA in Media Studies follows a liberal curriculum grounded in the social sciences. Its curriculum is intended for returning professionals, and AUB and non-AUB graduates who aim to build fundamental knowledge in the theories, research methods, and critical and practical skills of the field.

The MA program offers two tracks. Students may choose either a thesis option or a project option. Both options require 30 credits. Students must decide which track they want to pursue by the time they successfully complete the comprehensive exam, which is normally at the end of the second semester for full-time students. Based on their comprehensive exam performance, students will be advised to pursue one track or the other.

• The thesis option requires eight courses (24 credits), the comprehensive exam (0 credits), and a 6-credit thesis (MCOM 399).

• The project option requires nine courses (27 credits), the comprehensive exam (0 credits), and a 3-credit project (MCOM 398).

All candidates for the MA in Media Studies must complete MCOM 300, MCOM 301, MCOM 302, and MCOM 395 (comprehensive exam) and at least two courses from the list of department electives. The remainder of the courses may be selected from the department electives, the approved general electives, or other unlisted graduate courses, after the advisor’s consent.
Core Courses: MCOM 300, MCOM 301, and MCOM 302.

Department Electives: MCOM 310, MCOM 311, MCOM 312, MCOM 313, MCOM 380, MCOM 381, MCOM 390, MCOM 391, SOAN 310, SOAN 312, SOAN 315.

Approved General Elective Courses

- Political Communication: PSPA 321, PSPA 380, PSPA 381, PSPA 382.
- Health Communication: HPCH 310, HPCH 332, HPCH 333, HPCH 334, HMPD 300, EPHD 331, EPHD 332.
- Visual Literacy: GRDS 032, GRDS 036, GRDS 020.

Course Descriptions

MCOM 300  Graduate Research Methods in Media Studies  2.2; 3 cr.
This course teaches students how to critically read, design, and implement scientific research and use quantitative, qualitative, and mixed methods and data analysis techniques to address research questions and hypotheses common in the field of media studies. Students participate in actual research projects and apply various techniques of data collection, analysis, and interpretation. Prerequisite: Restricted to major or instructor consent. Annually.

MCOM 301/ SOAN 313  Seminar in Communication Theory and Research  3.0; 3 cr.
The seminar introduces the student to trends in media studies research and theoretical approaches to the media and communication process. Focus is placed on contemporary media and communication theories. Prerequisite: Restricted to major or instructor consent. Annually.

MCOM 302/ SOAN 317  Seminar in Arab Media and Society  3.0; 3 cr.
A seminar on the political, social, and economic effects of the new communication technologies on modern Arab society. Special attention is given to the effects of cultural deviance in the media on children and the effects of the communication media on social and cultural change. Prerequisite: Restricted to major or instructor consent. Annually.

MCOM 310  Digital Media Literacy and Education  2.2; 3 cr.
Explores media education and digital media literacy, or the ability to effectively access, analyze, evaluate and create digital media. Examines how media messages shape politics, culture and society, and explores new media production skills, including blogs, podcasts, photo and video manipulation. Alternative years.

MCOM 311  Media Law and Ethics  3.0; 3 cr.
A survey of Lebanese, Arab and International media laws and regulations, and their application within the realms of journalism, public relations, advertising, digital media, and entertainment, with an exploration of ethical guidelines, moral values, and social responsibilities of media scholars, practitioners and educators. Alternative years.
MCOM 312  Seminar in Persuasion Theory and Practice
3.0; 3 cr.
The seminar deals with how individuals exercise influence through communication. It examines the appropriate boundaries of persuasion research, the impact of persuasive practices, and the dynamic nature of persuasion inquiry. The seminar conducts an interdisciplinary examination of research in a wide range of areas related to persuasion of interest to mass communication students, psychologists, and public health practitioners. Occasionally.

MCOM 313  Seminar in Communication and Development
3.0; 3 cr.
A seminar on the role of communication in developing societies, with a focus on the media as modernizing agent, and on questions that are relevant for the understanding of the socioeconomic developmental process in less developed cultures. Occasionally.

MCOM 344  Data Journalism and Society
3.0; 3 cr.
This course brings together scientific research, data visualization and journalistic story telling techniques and emphasizes the role of media in society. It covers skills and techniques necessary for interpreting data and using statistical information to effectively relay the information to a general audience. Students will learn how to obtain, interpret, visualize and display data, evaluate and produce tables, charts and diagrams using a variety of applications and web tools to tell the story of science. Occasionally.

MCOM 362  Media Depictions of Society
3.0; 3 cr.
This course examines the role of the media in constructing our social reality through an examination of media practices, both historically and in the present. It particularly examines the representations of Arabs and the Arab world in the Western media, and the US in the Arab media. It covers politics of culture and identity as they shape and intersect with today's globalized media. Occasionally.

MCOM 363  From Telegraph to Twitter: Media History
3.0; 3 cr.
This course situates the history of communication – from the telegraph to today's social media
– as more than a history of technology, and discusses the complexity with which the social world is constructed. Both technology and history enter into conversation, opening up points of critical engagement of modern understandings of the world. Occasionally.

MCOM 390  Special Topics in Media Studies
3.0; 3 cr.
This course is devoted normally to MCOM faculty or visiting professors and recognized scholars to explore topics of current interest. May be repeated for credit. Occasionally.

MCOM 391  Graduate Tutorial in Media Studies
3.0; 3 cr.
This course is open to graduate students preferably during the second semester of the first year in their program of study. Tutorials provide opportunities for students to pursue directed readings and preliminary grounded research of relevance to their envisaged fields of concentration. May not be repeated for credit.

MCOM 395  Comprehensive Exam
0 cr.
Prerequisite: Consent of advisor.

MCOM 398  MA Project
3 cr.

MCOM 399  MA Thesis
6 cr.
