The Department of Philosophy offers programs leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts in Philosophy. Requirements for transfer to the department include approval by the department and a grade of 70 or more in any two humanities courses (excluding the communication skills requirements in Arabic and English).

Mission Statement

The undergraduate program in Philosophy provides students with a knowledge of key historical and contemporary philosophers and philosophical problems, together with a range of answers to those problems. They promote respect for clarity, truth, critical reflection and rational argument. They promote independence and of thought rooted in a fair-minded understanding of opposing views. They strive to equip students with the knowledge and skills needed to navigate relevant portions of the contemporary philosophical terrain; competence at critical analysis; and the ability to write about abstract issues in a clear, nuanced and compelling manner. Both programs also seek to impart an awareness of the application of philosophical thought to other academic disciplines or to matters of public interest, encouraging students to apply their philosophical skills more widely.

BA in Philosophy

Students majoring in philosophy are required to take a total of at least 36 credits of philosophy courses, which must include PHIL 210 and PHIL 211, and two of PHIL 213, PHIL 214, and PHIL 225. Students should also choose, under the supervision of the department, a balanced program of systematic and historical courses. In fulfillment of university requirements, majors must also take the following:

University General Education Requirements

English Communication Skills (6 credits); Arabic Communication Skills (3 credits); Humanities (12 credits, including 6 credits of CVSP); Social Sciences (6 credits); Natural Sciences (6 credits); Quantitative Thought (3 credits).

Students choosing a minor in philosophy are required to take a total of 15 credits in philosophy, including two of the following three courses: PHIL 211, PHIL 213, and PHIL 214.
