

Reactivation Form

(For students who left the University for not more than two years)

- Students in good standing who withdraw from the University voluntarily and who seek to return shall be granted readmission to their former faculty or school provided that the period between the end of the semester or session of withdrawal and the beginning of the semester or session for which readmission is sought is not more than four regular semesters.
- Students who were on probation when they withdrew from the University need the approval of the Admissions Committee of their faculty for readmission. Students readmitted to the Faculty of Arts and Sciences will be on probation for one semester and are required to take 12 or 13 credits; if they do not remove probation at the end of that semester, they will be dropped from the University.
