Victor Nauffal, MD (SHARP Class of 2013), currently a postdoctoral Research Fellow at the Division of Cardiology, Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, has been selected by the American Heart Association's Council on Cardiovascular Epidemiology and Prevention to participate in the "US Ten day Cardiovascular Epidemiology Seminar". This was a competitive NIH-supported application process, and Dr. Nauffal’s success will provide him the opportunity to interact with world leaders in the cardiovascular field, and to further develop his research skills and collaborations.