MA in Political Studies
MA in Public Administration

The Department of Political Studies and Public Administration (PSPA) offers two graduate programs: one leading to the degree of Master of Arts in Political Studies, and one leading to the degree of Master of Arts in Public Administration.

All MA applicants must submit an official GRE score with the application.

Graduate students in PSPA are required to complete 24 credit hours of courses (of which no more than six credit hours can be taken outside of the major), and defend a thesis (worth six credits) in front of a thesis committee.

Students majoring in Political Studies are required to take two core courses, which must include PSPA 300 and either PSPA 301, PSPA 310, or PSPA 320. Students are encouraged to complete all core courses by the end of their second semester. Other major courses can be taken from the following subfields: Political Theory: PSPA 301 to 309; International Politics: PSPA 310 to 319; Comparative Politics: PSPA 320 to 329; and Environmental Politics PSPA 341 to 346. The remaining two elective courses can be taken within the major or any other relevant field (including a foreign language).

Students majoring in Public Administration are required to take the following core courses: PSPA 300, PSPA 350, PSPA 351, and PSPA 352. Students are encouraged to complete all core courses by the end of their second semester. Three additional graduate courses are required from one of the following sub-disciplines: Public Management: PSPA 363, PSPA 370, PSPA 371, PSPA 372, PSPA 373, and PSPA 374; and Public Policy: PSPA 360, PSPA 361, PSPA 362, and PSPA 363. The remaining elective can be taken within or outside the major after consultation with the student’s adviser.

Part time

Course Descriptions

PSPA 300  Methodology and Research Design 3.0; 3 cr.
An introduction to the philosophy of science and how it influences the choice of research design. The emphasis is on developing skills that are useful for any method (survey, research, comparative historical analysis, game theory). The objective is to provide students with the practical tools they need to successfully complete original research. Core course. Annually.

PSPA 301  Political Theory 3.0; 3 cr.
A course that provides a critical examination and analysis of the theoretical bases and perennial issues of political theory and ideologies. Core course. Annually.

PSPA 302  The Modern Project 3.0; 3 cr.
The aim of this course is to explore the various intellectual, academic and political debates around the notion of modernity. Topics covered in this seminar include: modernity, modernization and the modern project, reason and rationalization, religion and secularization, knowledge, post-colonialism and post-modernism, and other related topics. Occasionally.

PSPA 303  Islamic Political Thought 3.0; 3 cr.
An in-depth course on modern Islamic political thought. This course focuses on the historical and intellectual developments that have fueled both revolutionary and conservative trends in Islamic political movements and states. Discussions cover issues such as the relationships between religion and politics, political philosophy and ideology, and political action and revolution. Occasionally.

PSPA 304  Theories of Political Economy 3.0; 3 cr.
A course that surveys various theories and theorists such as Marxism, Polyani, rational choice, and the new institutionalism. It introduces students to the study of how the political system and the economy interact. Occasionally.

PSPA 305  Political Theory in the Arab World 3.0; 3 cr.
The aim of this course is to explore various intellectual and political debates in the modern Arab world. The course will provide an overview of the development of modern Arab political thought and will present some of the main intellectual and academic debates in this domain. Topics covered in this seminar include: modernity and tradition, orientalism and the West, nationalism, Marxism, liberalism, and other related topics. Alternate years.

PSPA 306  Research Methods and Techniques 3.0; 3 cr.
A course that deals with various methods of data collection and analysis. Specific research methods include both quantitative and qualitative techniques such as experimental, survey, field observation, content analysis, historical/comparative, and evaluation. Occasionally.

PSPA 307  Knowledge and Power 3.0; 3 cr.
The course explores different aspects of the relationship between knowledge and power. It draws on different philosophical and sociological traditions in political theory to shed light on core cognitive, social, and ethical aspects and dilemmas that concern social scientists both as knowledge-producers who reflect on power as a conceptual and empirical reality, and as social agents who are themselves inscribed in structures and relations of power. Occasionally.
PSPA 309  Special Topics in Political Theory 3.0; 3 cr.
May be repeated for credit. Occasionally.

PSPA 310  International Politics 3.0; 3 cr.
This seminar provides a survey of the discipline of international politics and contemporary research in the field. In addition to covering central theoretical perspectives in international relations theory, the course will introduce students to contemporary debates in international politics and policy with an emphasis on topics and themes relating to the Middle East. Students will develop critical thinking and analytical writing skills through close reading of key texts and writing exercises. Core course. Annually.

PSPA 311  International Politics and the Middle East 3.0; 3 cr.
This seminar deals with issues and themes relevant to contemporary Middle East politics within the context of international relations. It explores how the politics of the Middle East, US policy in the Middle East, and the Middle East as a regional system have been understood and represented through the lens of international relations theory and scholarship. Topics include: the evolution of the Middle East state system, Arab Nationalism and the Cold War, the Arab-Israeli conflict and US policy towards Israel and the Palestinians, the geopolitics of oil and the Gulf, the Iraq War and its regional consequences, Iran’s role in the Arab world, the question of empire and the future of US grand strategy, and Lebanon’s position in regional politics. Annually.

PSPA 312  Public International Law 3.0; 3 cr.
A course that aims to provide an understanding of the principles underlying public international law that facilitates relations among states, resolves disputes, protects human rights, allocates resources, and restricts conduct during wartime. Emphasis is placed on subfields of international law most closely connected to international politics such as the legal consequences of very serious violations of international law, the role played by the United Nations or the legal regulation of the use of force. Reflected upon the kind of role international law plays in the conduct of international relations, this course includes many recent case studies and tackles some of the major debates in the field. Annually.

PSPA 313  International Security 3.0; 3 cr.
Security motives play an essential role in international politics, particularly in the conduct of international relations. This course deals with major issues in international security that may include arms control, disarmament, as well as new types of threats, such as terrorism, or environmental degradation. It covers traditional and less traditional perspectives on the field. Occasionally.

PSPA 314  The UN and International Politics 3.0; 3 cr.
This seminar examines the role of the United Nations (UN) within the context of international politics, security, and development. It focuses on the UN role in the Global South, particularly the Arab region. The course explores theoretical perspectives on the role of the UN in world politics and traces the evolution of UN institutions, and in particular UN peacekeeping, from the Cold War to post-Cold War period including the war on terror. It then considers a series of case studies in depth. The course will include, when possible, guest presentations from UN officials and a field trip to better appreciate the conditions within which UN operations work. Occasionally.
PSPA 315  Arab-Israeli Conflict  3.0; 3 cr.
This seminar examines whether a solution between Palestinians and Jewish Israelis is possible in the historic land of Palestine, and if so how. The course takes a historical approach to trace the root causes of the conflict and understand the main narratives that drive the Palestinian and Jewish national movements, as well as to understand the larger context and structure within which these narratives take place. It also tracks the long history of peace initiatives put forward by the great powers – starting with the UN partition plan and ending with the post Cold War, US-sponsored peace process – and how the shifting international rules and norms that underlie these initiatives have both shaped and reflected the realities on the ground in terms of both power and resistance. Annually.

PSPA 316/ ENSC 650  International Environmental Policy  3.0; 3 cr.
A course that seeks to provide a broad overview of the key concepts, actors, and issues related to global environmental policy. This course outlines the evolution of environmental policy in facing global environmental challenges and how such policies have become inherently intertwined with government policy, business practice, and international trade. Annually.

PSPA 317  International Political Economy  3.0; 3 cr.
This course provides a critical examination of the politics of international economic relations, global economic development, and transnational economic activity with a special emphasis on the position and experiences of the Middle East states in the global political economy. The course offers a survey of theoretical approaches to international political economy and addresses themes critical to the experience of the Middle East such as state-led industrialization, trade and regionalism, finance, oil, labor migration, MNCs, transnational movements, globalization, neo liberalism, and the politics of development and global governance. Occasionally.

PSPA 318  Theories of International Relations  3.0; 3 cr.
The seminar offers a critical study of readings drawn from the major theoretical traditions (realism, liberalism, constructivism) in international relations theory as well as critical approaches and trends. Occasionally.
