Record Creator: Asma Fathallah, 1939-

Collection Title: Ghandour Fathallah El-Sheikh Collection, 1900-2010

Collection Dates: 1900-2010

Physical Description: Around 2.3 linear feet (7 boxes) and 154 digital copies of family photos.

Abstract: The Ghandour Fathallah El-Sheikh family is a Beirut family that has distinguished origins routed in Arab tribes. Most probably, the early comers were from Maghreb, Libya, and North Africa in general. The family has several branches mentioned in the records of the Sunni Sharia Court in Beirut. The records 1281-1282 in the Court also refer to a locality known as the "Fathallah Hadrat" locality in Downtown Beirut, close to a public bath, which indicates the high social status of the family among other Beirut families. Many members of the family had played key roles in the Lebanese economy, social and cultural life. These family notables were pioneers in the industrial field (Omar Abdel Qader Ghandour, Muhammad Ghandour and sons, and Rafic Ghandour); the cultural sector (Mustafa A. Fathallah, Zuhair Fathallah, Muhammad Fathallah); the social field (Hassana Fathallah Daouk), and in athletics (Omar Abdel Qader Ghandour, Fawzi Jamil Ghandour, Uthman Badr Ghandour, Ziyad Jamil Ghandour) along with many other family members that actively shaped modern Lebanon during the 20th century.

Language(s): Mainly Arabic

Container List

Series I: Digital Photograph Collection (copies of prints), 1920s-2010

The digital photograph collection of 154, mainly black –white and sepia low-resolution photographs, gives a glimpse into the social and cultural life of Ghandour Fathallah El-Sheikh Family during the 20th century. The collection portrays the daily life and activities of a Beirut family, social customs, athletics, weddings, outings across Lebanon: Baruk, Jeita, and Nahr al Kalb, their stay at Ainab, a Lebanese summer resort. (The collection was organized, when possible, according to theme in each album. Sentences in Italics indicate that the item is not a photo mostly a scan of a document).
