Scope and Content

The small collection comprises 22 black and white photographs dating between 1982 and 1986. The collection documents mainly the Israeli occupation to South Lebanon with few photos taken in Beirut and a booklet entitled "South Lebanon 1948-1986: Facts and Figures". On the back of each photo, there are captions in English and Arabic. The collection reflects the life, suffering and resistance of the Lebanese citizens during the occupation period, from 1982 until 1986. The collection is relevant to researchers interested in the history of Lebanon. (Information in brackets was provided by the compiler).

Historical Information

The Israeli occupation began on June 6, 1982, where Israeli tanks began their advancement into Lebanon and captured over third of the Lebanese territory in the South, Mount Lebanon, and Beirut, while towns in the north and Biqa'a remained under the Palestinian and Syrian control. The occupation resulted in multitude material and human damages and later the withdrawal of the Palestinian forces from Lebanon under the supervision of the United Nations Peacekeeping Forces. The aftermath of this occupation continued until 1985 while the withdrawal was implemented in the year 2000.
