

Student Work-Study

As part of its financial aid program, the University provides all full-time students the opportunity to participate in its student work-study program provided they do not receive aid from other sources within AUB (grants or graduate assistantships). The program allows students to contribute toward their educational expenses while also developing job skills. Students work in various campus offices and the Medical Center. Applications are available at the Office of Student Affairs and must be submitted early in the semester. Placement is made on the basis of ability, need, and job availability. Students may work a specified number of hours per week; the hourly rate is based on the type of work performed.

Graduate Assistantships

Assistantships covering partial or full tuition and partial living expenses are available to students at the graduate level in return for a specified number of hours per week of work for an academic department. Recipients are selected on the basis of their academic record and departmental needs. Applications for graduate assistantships for new students are enclosed in the admissions application package. Continuing students may obtain applications from the office of the dean of the faculty in which they are enrolled.

Adjusting to university life can be a difficult transition and a very stressful experience for many students. Personal difficulties, whether of a recent or long-standing nature, can hinder academic success and seriously affect a student's quality of life and well-being.

Personal counseling is offered to AUB students to help them identify and address their issues and problems. This could include anxiety, depression, grief, substance abuse, eating disorders, and relationship and family problems. In fact, there are no restrictions as to what can be discussed in counseling.

The counseling team provides assistance to students with study-related issues such as test anxiety and time management. Counseling is free and confidential.

Student Housing

AUB is a residential university in the American liberal arts tradition. It was the first, and still is one of the few, residential universities in the Middle East with a beautiful campus where a rich extracurricular and community life flourishes. Life in the AUB residence system has established strong and supportive communities.

Freshman students whose parents reside outside Beirut or in its suburbs are required to live in the University's residence halls throughout their first year, unless otherwise requested in writing by their parents. The Office of Student Affairs strives to create and maintain an atmosphere in the residence halls that help students grow academically, emotionally, and socially.

Arrangements for on-campus housing are made through the Office of Student Affairs. The Office of Admissions sends each new student a student housing application form as soon as they make the commitment to enroll.

The housing form must be completed and returned to the Office of Student Affairs by the first week of August for the fall semester, and by the first week of January for the spring semester. A copy of the residence application may be downloaded from the Office of Student Affairs webpage. Early application is advised. Each semester dorm students must renew their housing application. Students who do not live in a residence hall during the fall semester but wish to do so in the spring semester and/or summer session may apply and are assigned space subject to availability. Housing charges appear on the statement of fees issued to students during the registration period each semester/session, and they vary with the following three types of accommodation:

regular, double-occupancy room	LL1,650,000
semi-private double occupancy room*	LL2,025,000
private room	LL2,655,000

Cable TV, DVD, and web-enabled computers are available in the lounge/basement of each building.

Residence Halls

There are six student residence halls: four for women, two for men. The rooms are divided mainly into doubles (accommodating two persons); some semi-private rooms (two-double occupancy rooms with their own bathroom); and in rare instances, when availability permits, a few private rooms (single occupancy sharing the floor bathroom). Priority is given to accommodating all undergraduate applicants.

All residence halls have heating, hot water, washing machines, dryers, irons, web-enabled computers in the lounges, wireless internet access and a telephone on each floor. Each room is furnished with a bed, desk, chair, and closet. All dormitories are air-conditioned.

* This category is available only at the Women's dorms.

Women's Residence Halls

The four women's halls are located on the lower campus overlooking the Mediterranean sea. The ground floor of each hall houses the reception desk, a kitchen, computer terminals with internet access, and a lounge for socializing, receiving guests, and watching television. International pay phones, laundry facilities, and vending machines with snacks and soft drinks are installed in the basement or ground floor of all buildings.

Men's Residence Halls

The two men's residence halls are located in the west part of upper campus close to Bliss Street, with its abundance of shops and constant bustle of activity. The ground floor of each hall houses a reception desk, computer terminals with internet access, and a lounge for socializing, receiving guests, and watching television. International pay phones; vending machines with snacks, cold soft drinks, and hot drinks; and laundry facilities, are installed in the basement and ground floor. An entertainment room equipped with TV, DVD, and a pool table is located in the basement of Penrose.

International Student Services

International Student Services (ISS) provides support to international students and assists AUB students interested in studying abroad. International students are strongly urged to register at ISS upon arrival in Lebanon.

Other services include

- orientation and shuttle pick-up from the airport
- promoting opportunities for international students to meet each other and also to integrate into the AUB community
- pre-arrival assistance
- AUB Ambassador Program: AUB student volunteers are matched with international students on campus to help newcomers adjust to the new culture
- visa and residence permit information

Visas, Residence Permits, and Passports

International students joining AUB should have their passports valid for a period of no fewer than 6 months from the date of joining the University. Most nationalities require a visa to enter Lebanon, and most need to arrange for a visa in advance.

Once registered, international students who do not hold a Lebanese passport are required to obtain a residence permit before the expiration of the entry visa stamped in their passport. It is strongly recommended that students apply for this permit as soon as possible after arrival and ONLY after registering and paying AUB tuition fees. Application forms are available at the ISS desk.

Study Abroad/Student Exchange

AUB has 3 exchange programs for undergraduates. They are with: The American University in Cairo, the American University, Washington and Bogazici University in Istanbul, Turkey. AUB has an exchange program for graduate students with The Elliot School for International Affairs at George Washington University in Washington, DC, USA. International Student Services and the CAMES department can assist students interested in joining this program.

To obtain information about other study abroad opportunities, students should contact International Student Services directly.
