The Department of Internal Medicine offers courses, clinical clerkships and specialty electives to medical students. It also offers clinical post-graduate training to MD graduates including residency and subspecialty fellowships. The Residency Program offers two tracks, which are a 1-year training (Preliminary Track) and a 3-year training (Categorical Track). The Fellowship training following the residency period is offered in the subspecialties that include cardiology, endocrinology, gastroenterology, nephrology-hypertension, hematology-oncology, infectious diseases, rheumatology, and pulmonary medicine and critical care.

IDTH 221/222 Introduction to Medicine 108.72; 9 cr.

An introductory course given to Med II students annually over a 36-week period. A multidisciplinary and integrated approach to mechanisms of disease based on the organ systems, stressing pathophysiology and introducing the clinical presentation of diseases. This course is given in the form of lectures, discussion sessions and Moodle-based learning. Students are introduced to clinical cases in light of pathophysiology.

IDTH 223/224 Physical Diagnosis 36.72; 3 cr.

An introduction to the principles of history-taking and physical examination. This course is given over a 36-week period to Med II students in the form of lectures, practical sessions and physician shadowing in which history and physical examination are demonstrated on actual patients at AUBMC.

INMD 246 Clinical Clerkship in Internal Medicine 120.540

A clinical clerkship in which third year medical students spend two months on the ward and one month in the outpatient department (OPD). On the ward, students work up and follow patients under the supervision of senior residents and faculty. They are responsible for taking the history, performing the physical examination, following laboratory work and writing supervised notes in the charts on assigned hospital patients. Throughout their rotations students are required to attend clinical conferences, including a course on clinical pharmacology, and to prepare and participate in clinical discussions.

INMD 254 Infection Control 6.34; 1 cr.

A course given to Med III students to increase their awareness and expertise in infection control as it relates to the protection of patients as well as the health-care worker from iatrogenic infection. The course aims to ensure that students understand their responsibility in infection control and apply scientifically acceptable infection control principles. This course is given as an online presentation followed by a series of questions. Students should also pass a written examination.

INMD 262 Clinical Clerkship in Internal Medicine 0.540

A clinical clerkship in which fourth year medical students work in their capacity as junior interns (sub-internship) on the medical floors of the hospital. They are responsible for admission work-up of patients, and their follow-up under the supervision of the attending physician and team resident. They are also required to attend clinical conferences, present at the student report activity, and prepare and participate in clinical discussions.

INMD 267 Elective in Internal Medicine Subspecialties 0.180-360.

An elective is offered to fourth year medical students in one or more of the subspecialties of internal medicine, including cardiology, endocrinology and metabolism, nephrology, pulmonary and critical care medicine, rheumatology, gastroenterology, hematology-oncology, and infectious diseases.

Weekly Conferences

The Department of Internal Medicine organizes general Internal Medicine conferences including Mortality and Morbidity conferences, Core Curriculum Lectures, Morning Report, as well as weekly Medical Grand Rounds. In addition to the general Internal Medicine conferences, Med III students are also required to attend lectures during their OPD outpatient rotations, and Med IV students are required to attend Chairman's Rounds, Student Reports and Board Review Sessions. The residents attend other conferences, such as ICU Conferences, Journal Club, Ambulatory Report, EKG Course, Joint Internal Medicine/Radiology Rounds and Board Review Sessions. In addition, each division runs a weekly or bi-weekly conference and journal review session in their subspecialty.

Agreements

A joint program of academic cooperation between the Department of Internal Medicine at AUBMC and Ayn Wa Zein community hospital in the Shouf mountains began June 15, 2002, whereby residents serve during a rotation through the program as part of their training in Geriatrics.

Another program with the Makassed General Hospital (MGH) was inaugurated in the fall of 2012, whereby interns, residents and Med IV students rotate through the clinical program as part of their in-patient training in Internal Medicine.

In addition, at the start of the Academic Year 2017-2018, a cooperation agreement was made between the Department of Internal Medicine at AUBMC and the Makhzoumi Foundation, whereby residents pass through clinical rotations during their outpatient training in Internal Medicine.
