

Yahoo! features AUB among 15 best value universities

Wednesday March 10, 2010

A March 9 article posted on Yahoo!'s homepage listed AUB among 15 American universities that offer "fantastic higher education values."

Provided by MainStreet, a business and financial news site, the article recommended 15 colleges and universities for students who are looking for the best value-for-their-money, at a time when universities are slashing their financial aid budgets and banks are placing stringent requirements for student loans.

Entitled "15 Fantastic Higher Education Values," the article listed top US schools such as Brigham Young University, Texas A & M, and University of Virginia. AUB was the only international university featured in the list.

"If you are looking for a great value in an international education experience, you might find that you enjoy the 'Paris of the Middle East,'" said the article in reference to AUB.

See the Yahoo! article at this link: <http://finance.yahoo.com/college-education/article/109032/15-fantastic-higher-education-values&mod=college-education>