

Mohamad El Masry is a 3rd year PhD student working in a co-direction program between the lab of Dr. Assaad Eid at the American University of Beirut, Lebanon and the University of Paris, France. My thesis project tackles the role of the mTOR pathway and NADPH oxidase enzymes in the development of Schwann cell injury in Diabetes.