

The Fellowship and Residency Research Program's Third Happy Hour Event
Featuring Three Residents' Publications

The Fellowship and Residency Research Program (FRRP) at the American University of Beirut Medical Center (AUB-MC) organized its third Happy Hour Event on December 17, 2014 at Casper & Gambini's Med Café featuring three residents' publications.

The Happy Hour event featured two special guests: Dean Mohammad Sayegh and associate Dean Samia Khoury. It was attended by Faculty members from all clinical and academic fields, FRRP representatives, medical staff, residents, fellows and medical students.

The ceremony was initiated by a welcoming word for the director of the FRRP, Dr. Ali Taher followed by a word for Dr. Samia Khoury who gave an overview about the program and emphasized its benefits for the residents. The event highlighted and celebrated the achievements of the three residents: Iman Abou Dalle, Jessica Aoun and Tharwat el Zahran who presented their publications and shared their FRRP experience while emphasizing the significance of gaining research skills throughout the residency/fellowship period. Lastly, Dr. Mohamad Sayegh wrapped up the occasion by shedding light on the accomplishments achieved by the FRRP as being a new initiative to elevate research to a higher standard. This was followed by a cocktail reception.
