

Samar Mikati

Serving in Jafet Library since 2001, Samar Mikati has been diligent since day one. As the Archives and Special Collections Librarian, one of her main duties is helping AUB faculty and students, as well as interested parties outside the university, with their archival research.

Samar always goes the extra mile to find the information that her clients ask from her, and never shies away from taking on challenges that may require her to spend evenings and weekends digging up information. She serves presidents—past and current—as well as students with equal dedication, persistence, and enthusiasm.

Samar also serves AUB in a broader way, by preserving the rich array of historical documents we have and preserving current documents for later generations. She loves her work passionately and strives always to find innovative solutions to better serve the university community.

Her altruism and empathy are evident to all those who work with her and who rely on the Library's services. Samar Mikati is an exemplary employee who shows her commitment to this university on a daily basis and in all she does.
