Sultan Barakat

Sultan Barakat is the founding Director of the Center for Conflict and Humanitarian Studies at the Doha Institute for Graduate Studies (DI). He is also Professor of Post-war Recovery Studies at the University of York where he founded and led the Post-war Reconstruction and Development Unit between 1993 and 2014. Prior to joining the DI he served as Director of Research at the Brookings Doha Center. He has been published widely and his most recent book, Understanding Influence: The Use of Statebuilding Research in British Policy, was published by Ashgate in 2014.

He has over 25 years of professional experience working on issues of conflict management, humanitarian response, and post-conflict recovery and transition. He is regularly engaged in providing guidance as a Senior Adviser and Consultant to the United Nations, the World Bank, European Union, DFID, ILO, IFRC and a variety of governments and international non-governmental organizations including CARE and Oxfam. He has led major evaluations and programming initiatives across the world including in Afghanistan, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Croatia, Egypt, Jordan, Kosovo, Lebanon, Palestine, Philippines, Somalia, Sri Lanka, Sudan, Syria, Uganda and Yemen.

Professor Barakat serves on the Advisory Board of the Humanitarian Policy Group at the Overseas Development Institute in London. He is a member of the joint Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC) and the UK's Department for International Development (DFID) Commissioning Panel for research on poverty reduction. He was one of the founding Expert Panel Members of the Global Peace Index where he served between 2008 and 2014.
