Biographical Sketch

Abdallah Aref El-Yafi was born in Beirut in 1901. He studied at the Jesuit Université Saint-Joseph and obtained his degree in law in 1923. He later pursued and obtained in 1925 a Ph.D. in Law from the Sorbonne University, Paris, thus becoming, along with Mr. Habib Abou Shahla, among the first Lebanese nationals to obtain a doctorate in law from the Sorbonne. In 1925, Mr. Yafi presided over the Syrian Arab Society in Paris. The title of his dissertation was “Condition Privée de la Femme dans le Droit de L’Islam”. This research would go on to influence many decisions he initiated or took in favor of women’s rights during his various political roles in the newly nascent Lebanese state.

Back in Beirut, Mr. Yafi established his law firm and practiced law. In 1938, he was appointed Prime Minister for the first time under President Emile Edde. This was followed, between 1938 and 1968 by eight different appointments as Prime Minister, under the Presidencies of Bisharah el-Khoury, Camille Chamoun & Charles Helou. During his tenure as Prime Minister, he lobbied for, and passed a bill granting the Lebanese women suffrage in 1952. This was followed by another law granting Lebanese women the right to run for elections.

Besides his functions as Prime Minister, Mr. Yafi was also elected Member of the Parliament for the district of Beirut for 7 terms between 1930 and 1972.

Mr. Yafi married Ms. Hind Al-Azm, and together, they fathered five children: Arif, Wathiq, Ghayath, Dr. Ghada, and Dr. Nahla. Prime Minister Yafi passed away in 1986.
